ERASMUS+

The use of technology in language teaching.

This course is aimed at non-native speakers of English teaching English as a Foreign Language to secondary school students and adults who wish to integrate, explore and develop the use of technology in language teaching. Primary teachers teaching pupils preparing for secondary education may also find the course rewarding. Course content is also suitable for CLIL teachers and teachers of Business English/English for Specific Purposes.

Objectives

To Improve personal fluency for teaching and to give participants working with English the key language and communication skills necessary in educational, social and vocational contexts.

To provide effective training for teachers to better enable them to teach and communicate in English confidently and efficiently.

Morning programme: a balanced focussing on the 4 skills of speaking, listening, reading and writing whilst covering essential grammar, vocabulary, pronunciation and colloquial language. Small groups allow concentrated, focussed study of English.

Afternoon programme: provides participants with practical ideas to help them to:

- develop participants' awareness of how technology can support language learning
- look at how technology can be integrated into teaching
- equip participants with practical and engaging ideas they can use in their classrooms

- improve confidence in using technology in class and digital literacy

Course Content and Strategies

The course focuses on fluency and methodology and their practical application to the classroom.

Participants will be encouraged to share their own ideas and experience in a friendly, supportive atmosphere and develop networks with participants from other countries. There will be opportunities throughout the course to exploit the UK context by collecting relevant authentic materials, making contact with native speakers and taking part in the school's social and cultural programme, and outings.

This course has a maximum class size 12. Trainers seek to give their colleagues greater personal fluency, more confidence in the classroom and insights into current language teaching methodology and techniques to improve teaching skills.

ELC Brighton classes in English as a Foreign Language include students studying with us for both short and long stays. Participants may observe our experienced, qualified EFL teachers in action.
